Wild Scenes in Waco After Father Slays Black Who Attacked Daughter

BIG GUARD AROUND JAIL

No Charge Will be Preferred Against White Man Who Shot Negro

Waco, Texas.—Excitement and disorder incident to the killing and burning of Jesse Thomas, 23, negro, here late Friday virtually has ceased Saturday giving the populace an opportunity to reflect on the events of one of the wildest days in the city's history.

Beginning early Friday morning when the killing of W. H. Bolton, 25, and a criminal attack upon Mrs. Margaret Hays, 26th, by a Negro, became known and culminated with the dragging of the supposed guilty negroes charred body through the streets of Waco after he had met death at the hands of the woman's father, it was a day of intense feeling, demonstration and stirring scenes.

Local officers reinforced by a detachment of rangers stood guard over the McLennan county jail all night determined to protect five negro inmates under sentence for murder, from a mob surrounding the structure. The mob was dwindled considerably early Saturday but the officers maintained their guard prepared for any eventuality.

Three negroes are still being held in jail, in connection with the murder and assault. Officers say they believe the negroes are innocent but are afraid to release them until feeling subsides.

County officials say they do not believe any charge will be filed against Sam Harris, who avenged the crime against his daughter when he shot Thomas seven times after the Negro had been brought to his home and identified by Mrs. Hays as her assailant.

The identification was made when Thomas was apprehended on the city plaza by a neighbor of Harris who, with the help of some other men, took the Negro to the Harris home. News of Thomas' death soon spread and in a short time the mob was formed by a mob and the Negro's body dragged to the public square where it was burned before thousands of shouting spectators. After the corpse had been burned it was dragged through the streets of the Negro section while men vied with each other in trying to get part of it for a souvenir.

PICK OPPONENTS OF LAFOLLETTE FOR NOMINATION

Politicians Watch Milwaukee
Conference Which is First
Since Primary Law

The developments of the next few days are looked to by politicians here to show the trend which the Citizens' Republican conference meeting at Milwaukee, June 1, will take in choosing contenders to oppose the LaFollette slate of contenders for the Republican nomination to state offices.

Both factions are paying close attention to the probable outcome of this general convention, the first state-wide conference of selected delegates since the state-wide primary was adopted in Wisconsin. Not only will the gathering name candidates to enter the September primary but will adopt a platform which is to represent the principles adhered to by the organization when it enters the campaign against the LaFollette faction.

Candidates for state office, seeking approval of the Milwaukee conference, are busy now taking stock of their strength and laying a course of action to be followed by them before the meeting. Some of those ambitious to enter the contest for state office are actively engaged in allaying political forces, while others let it be known that they would respond to any call for active participation in the political battle.

Delegates generally are coming uninvited when they meet in Milwaukee Thursday morning. Many county meetings, however, in selecting delegates on May 10, adopted resolutions expressing approval of the candidates of certain of those who will submit their names to the convention for endorsement.

LABOR CZARS RELEASED ON $75,000 BAIL

Big Tim Murphy and Fred Mader
Given Liberty After
11 Days in Jail

ARE CHARGED WITH MURDER

Release is Ordered After State
Fails to Frustrate Habeas
Corpus Order

By Associated Press

Chicago.—"Big Tim" Murphy and Fred Mader, described as the czars in what the police term a labor war, Saturday were ordered released from jail on bonds of $75,000 each. They had been confined in cells for eleven days after their arrest and indictment for the murder of Police Lieutenant Terrence Lyons, one of two policemen shot to death May 9 while investigating bombings believed to be in protest of the Landis building trades wage award.

The order was issued by Judge H. B. Miller and ended a ten day litigation in which the state heretofore has been successful in frustrating the efforts to release the two labor leaders. The habeas corpus hearing before Judge Miller lasted two days, the state refusing to present the evidence on which the men were held saying that to do so would weaken their case when the trial came up. Judge Miller held that since no evidence against them was presented he was compelled to exercise his power to release them on bail.

Their bonds were set at $75,000 each. Thomas Carey, a retired brick layer and politician scheduling property valued at $300,000 to guarantee their appearance when the trial starts. Mr. Carey refused to put up the bonds until Murphy and Mader had agreed to have nothing more to do with the Chicago building trades council, which it has been alleged the controlled in the fight against the Unions accepting the Landis building trades wage award.

"Big Tim" promptly accepted the conditions, saying that he intended to devote his work to the gas workers union.

JUDGE'S DECISION CHEERED
Murphy, Mader and their friends were overjoyed when the decision was announced and bailiffs had trouble in quelling the impromptu cheering which they started. Mrs. Tim Murphy, mother of "Big Tim" jumped up on a chair and shouted:

"Hooray for Ireland; they can't keep my Timmy in jail for something he didn't do."

Judge Miller's decision was rendered under the Illinois law which provides that in murder cases a judge may order bail, if he is convinced that the evidence against the defendants is of such a character that he believes they should not be deprived of their liberty pending trial.

The state has never maintained Murphy or Mader actually fired the shots which killed the policemen. It holds they instigated the crimes and thus are as guilty as the actual shooters. It was on this basis that the anarchists were convicted and hanged here years ago.

MUSCLE SHOALS PLAN AGREED ON BY HOUSE COMMITTEE

Proposal Held in Confidence—
Ford Terms Followed—
Gorgas Eliminated

By Associated Press

Washington.—A proposal for development of the government's nitrate and power projects at Muscle Shoals was finally agreed upon Saturday by the house military committee after more than three months continuous investigation and study of the offers made by Henry Ford, The Alabama Power company, Frederick Engstrom and Charles L. Parsons.

While the proposal was held in strictest confidence by the committee with regard to its various provisions relating to development of the project, it was learned that the Gorgas steam plant, was eliminated from the property to be disposed by the military committee. The committee plan in other respects follows closely to the terms offered by Henry Ford.

Mr. Mayo and other witnesses who represented Mr. Ford before the committee during the investigation, declared repeatedly that Mr. Ford held the Gorgas plant to be necessary to his scheme of developing the shoals property and also repeatedly declared he would not agree to its elimination from his offer.

Copies of the committee proposal also were made available to officials with the Muscle Shoals. The committee plan in other respects follows closely to the terms offered by Henry Ford. They were requested to inform the committee early next week whether the proposal was acceptable after which the committee's report would be submitted to the house and made public.

The proposal was drafted by the committee and committee members said, represented a plan it would submit to all persons and interests for acceptance regardless of whether they already had made an offer for the Muscle Shoals properties.

A copy of the committee's draft was given to W. B. Mayo, chief engineer for Mr. Ford, who said he would leave here today for Detroit. The purpose of his visit, it was explained, was to confer with Mr. Ford and ascertain whether he was willing to accept the terms laid down by the committee. After the conference Mr. Mayo said, he would return to give the committee Mr. Ford's answer.

It was understood that the elimination of the Gorgas steam plant from the properties at Muscle Shoals which Mr. Ford included in his proposal, would be the main objection in the way of acceptance by Mr. Ford of the committee's plan.

DISAGREE ON CLOTURE FOR TARIFF BILLS

Republican Senate Row Likely To Cause Change in Party's Future Policy

By Associated Press

Washington.—Wide difference of opinion among Republican senators on the proposal for cloture on the pending tariff and other revenue and appropriation bills developed at Saturday's party conference. Disagreement was so broad that no progress was made and the conference adjourned until next Wednesday.

The advocates and opponents of cloture among the Republicans lined up sharply. It was reported at Saturday's conference, Senator McCumber, Republican, North Dakota, in charge of the tariff bill, offered a motion for appointment of a sub-committee to consider the draft of the proposed new rule and also to consider advisability of presenting a cloture rule during the pending tariff fight. It was said that Senator McCumber, while favoring limitation of debate, believed it inadvisable to inject a cloture fight into the tariff debate.

CIRCULATE PETITION

Unable to get action today on the cloture question, its friends later began circulation among Republican senators of a petition, called a "round robin" declaring in favor of the cloture, but leaving open to the judgment of the conference when such a rule should be presented to the senate. The petition, soon had a score of signatures, it was said.

It also became known that an influential group of the cloture advocates had a frank talk later with Senator Lodge, the party leader, and that Senator Lodge was "told that efforts to keep harmony within the Republic and ranks, by submitting to what was termed "domination by a small group" of other senators, would not be successful.

The situation, several prominent Republicans said privately, contained the element of a potentially party row of large dimensions and possibly important results in connection with the party's future and direction in the senate.

BELIEVE CLIMAX IN WHEAT IS OVER

Board of Trade Men Still on Lookout But End of Season Shortage is Unlikely

By Associated Press

Chicago.—Although chances of surprising developments about May dealings in wheat tended to keep many board of trade men on their toes Saturday, the majority had begun acting on the assumption that the climax was already over and that widely held theories of an acute end of the season scarcity of wheat here had been exploded. With hundreds of carloads of wheat daily piling into Chicago, the price for May had plunged down headlong instead of going skyward, and Saturday morning, as compared with a week ago, the wheat market took as a whole a 13¢ to 14¢ drop from 1 1/2¢ to 1 1/4¢ a bushel. Corn showed a back of 1¢ to 1 1/4¢ in value and oats off 1/2¢ to 1¢. In provisions the net changes for the week ranged from 15c decline to $1.05 advance.

The most exciting collapse of prices came exactly a week ahead of the time which board of trade rules had fixed as the limit for the settlement of contracts calling for the delivery of wheat here this month.

CHARGE PRETTY MICHIGAN GIRL IS WIFE OF TWO MEN

Flint, Mich.—Mrs. Lola Spayer, alleged to have spent her days as the wife of Anthony Spayer, a night policeman, and her nights with Henry Robuck, day time factory worker, was arrested in Lansing Saturday on a warrant charging bigamy. The woman is being brought here for arraignment by additional American refugees arriving from the Yaqui Valley. No Americans have been killed thus far they say. All the victims of the latest outbreak have been Mexicans.

Mrs. Spayer, 25 and attractive, disappeared three days ago when she learned neighbors had become suspicious of her actions and were investigating the alleged two shift matrimonial tangle. Both Robuck and Spayer aided the officers in seeking the woman.

Officers allege their investigations have shown the woman spent each day at Spayer's home and after seeing him off to work in the afternoon went to Robuck's home and had dinner waiting for him when his day's work at the factory was done.

Special services will be held at Lawrence college at 9 o'clock Monday morning in honor of the students who have given their lives for their country.

WHERE REQUESTS APPLETON TO HELP IMPROVE HARBOR

Local Chamber of Commerce Considers Advisability of Deepening River

Deepening of Fox river channel either from Green Bay to DePere, or from Green Bay to Appleton, will be given serious study by Appleton Chamber of Commerce, possibly to be followed by a resolution to urge the government to appropriate funds to carry out the project.

This is the assurance given three members of DePere Civic association who appeared before the chamber directors at a meeting in the French room of the Sherman house Thursday evening, outlining reasons why Appleton should lend its support to the movement. The visitors were John A. Kuyper, secretary of the DePere harbor improvement committee, H. S. Wells and R. C. French.

Mr. Wells explained the plans in detail. He said government engineers gave an unfavorable report on deepening the harbor sometime ago and the idea now is to have this report reconsidered. The channel would be dredged to a 20-foot depth for a distance of 3 1/2 miles if carried as far as DePere. That city is willing to pay $25,000 toward the venture and Green Bay also will pay a share.

SAVE SHIPPING TIME
Appleton would benefit by the ability of large lake boats to dock at DePere instead of Green Bay, it was said. About two hours would be saved in the shipment of coal by boat. Other advantages would accrue to the entire valley, the DePere men believed.

Discussion of the matter led to the suggestion that the river be deepened all the way to Appleton. This idea seemed to find favor with the directors, but there was doubt as to the effect on water power users. The whole problem therefore was referred to the industrial and transportation committee and Seymour Gmeiner, chairman, was instructed to confer with water power men. He then is to present a recommendation from which a resolution may be drafted.

Hearty indorsement was given the Y. M. C. A. plan to teach every man and boy in Appleton to swim during a campaign to be conducted early in June. Secretary Hugh G. Corbett was instructed to send the association a written indorsement, wishing the movement success.

Lothar G. Graef, president, and Mr. Corbett gave reports on the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in Washington last week.

URGE U. S. HAND IN EAST AFFAIRS

Graef Explains Resolutions Adopted by National Chamber of Commerce

Resolutions adopted by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States at its tenth annual meeting in Washington, D. C. were presented to the directors of Appleton Chamber of Commerce by Lothar G. Graef, president at a meeting Thursday evening.

Mr. Graef and Hugh G. Corbett, managing secretary, spent a week at the capital listening to speeches by President Harding and others dealing with the economic situation of the European situation so business in America could get back to normal. Each attended group meetings conducted by heads of various service departments of the national body.

Julius H. Barnes, Duluth, noted grain magnate, was elected president of the national chamber to succeed Joseph H. Detre of Chicago, Mr. Graef said.

The convention urged that necessary measures be taken speedily to procure for the United States official representation on the allied reparations commission; that this country have a place in the international court of justice; that a speedy plan be devised for disposing of war claims against the central powers and their nationals.

The government also was urged to insure maintenance of a adequate privately owned and operated merchant marine. Congress was asked to enact legislation for the Hague rules; opposition was voiced to reducing personnel of the army and navy below conservative strength.

It was urged that there be no amendments to the interstate commerce act until there has been opportunity for the law to be tested and that there be a repeal of power to correct intrastate rates.

Provision was urged to allow owners of private property to obtain compensation for damage done by government vessels. Acting on appeals from flood-stricken districts of the country, the national chamber demands that the government undertake additional measures to safeguard the large area in the country now subject to destructive floods.

Caution was expressed against changes of the federal reserve banking system except such as will add further strength and usefulness. Reduction of passport fees and support of the national school for commercial organization secretaries were advocated.

H. S. SENIORS TO OFFER 4-ACT PLAY THURSDAY NIGHT

Young People Rehearsing "Mice and Men," an Interesting Romantic Comedy

"Mice and Men," the four act romantic comedy to be presented Thursday by the senior class of the high school at Fischer's Appleton theatre, is a different type than has ever been attempted by a high school class. Formerly the pure comedy type of play was presented. "Mice and Men" contains not only comedy but also a semblance of drama.

The eternal triangle in this play concerns "Poppy" the heroine, who is portrayed by Claire Ryan, and Mark Embury, a philosopher and scholar and Captain George Lovell, a nephew of Embury. Joseph Heinrich takes the role of Embury while LaVahn Macsch plays Captain Lovell. Miss Peggy finds herself confronted with the time old predicament of being engaged to one man and to love with another, a condition which causes all sorts of situations which of course make up the play. Sir Harry Trimblestone, a dashing young English lord, played by John O'Leary, has a smaller yet effective part of the cast which makes up the comedy.

Tickets for the class play are on sale at the high school. Rehearsals are being held daily under the supervision of Miss Ruth McKennan, dramatic teacher of the high school.

TRACTOR COMPANY ASKS THAT CASE BE REOPENED

Efforts are being made to reopen the case of the Allegheny Gear Works against the U. S. Tractor and Machine Co. in which a judgement by default was granted the plaintiff for $4,452.92 with costs. It is said the tractor company had a defense and counterclaim considerably in excess of the judgement and that the principals had agreed that the case would be postponed until the September term of court in the hope that a settlement could be reached. Unless the case is reopened the tractor company will appeal, it is said.

TWO GENERATIONS OF GRADUATES IN CLOSING PROGRAM

Classes of '22 and '27 Take Part in Class Day Exercises Next Wednesday

Appleton high school class day exercises will be held at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, May 31 on the lawn adjoining the high school building. The class of 1897, the last to graduate from old Ryan high school, will participate in the class day program as part of its twenty-fifth anniversary reunion.

Seniors will march from the school Wednesday singing the class song composed by Margaret Wadsworth, senior.

Several of the present Appleton teachers were on the staff in 1897 when the last Ryan high class left the school. Efforts are being made to secure the attendance of as many of that class as possible. Francis E. McGovern, former governor of Wisconsin, was principal of the school at that time. He is scheduled to give a short address.

Instead of holding the program on the school steps as has been the custom, it will take place on the spacious lawn at the corner of Morrison and Harris sts. Chairs will be provided for parents and students.

Mrs. Edith Loeb Hamburger of Chicago, also of the class of 1897, an excellent reader is to have a part in the program.

Awards of trophies and letters also will be made. Most of the awards will not be known until they are presented.

300 AT PROGRAM AT TRADE SCHOOL

School Exhibit Holds Attention of Visitors after Program

Nearly 300 people were present at the closing program of Appleton vocational day school Friday evening in the assembly room of the vocational school building. The program was very well rendered. The style show by the sewing and millinery departments probably was the feature event of the evening, and the dresses shown gave every indication of good workmanship.

Fully an hour was spent after the presentation of the program in inspecting the school exhibit. The visitors were given an opportunity of seeing the machine shop in action. H. H. Martin gave demonstrations in the science room and girls gave various demonstrations relative to household duties.

The program was as follows:
Music..... Girls Glee Club

WANTS PARENTS TO SEND BOYS TO CAMP

H. P. Buck, scout executive, has written a letter to parents of boy scouts calling their attention to the scout summer camp at Onoway Island at Waupaca, from Aug. 7 to Aug. 20, and from Aug. 20 to Sept. 2, two periods of two weeks each. He said more real scouting can be taught in the two weeks at camp than during a whole year at home.

The council offers this opportunity to the boys at a cost of $5.50 per week or $11 for each period. This will include all expenses for the boy from the time he leaves home until back again, as the council is willing to handle the additional expense. Only 70 boys can be accommodated at each period.

The scout executive requests parents to see that their sons attend the Memorial day ceremonies in order to have a 100 per cent attendance. Uniforms are not required, but those who have them should wear them. The scouts are to meet the armory at 12:45.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Zemlock and daughter Helen and Mary Katherine of Oaksho are visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Letz, 453 State st.

MRS. FRANK WILKIE, of Syracuse, N. Y. formerly matron at the State Reformatory at Industry, N. Y., who says she is delighted with Tanlae since it restored her health after she suffered eight years.

"This is the first time in eight years that I have been free from stomach trouble and it is all because of the wonderful good Tanlae has done me," said Mrs. Frank Wilkie, 229 Cedar St., Syracuse. Mrs. Wilkie formerly resided in Buffalo and for two years was matron of the State Reformatory at Industry, N. Y.

"I was getting scarcely enough to keep alive," she declared, "for I would rather not touch a bite than suffer the misery I knew would follow. Even sweet milk disagreed with me. I was sick in bed for two and three days at a time, and gas on my stomach made such awful pressure on my heart it almost cut off my breath. I had horrible dreams at night and in the morning was all tired out."

"Well, the longest day I live I will praise Tanlae, for my improvement has been simply remarkable. I have no more heartburn, my appetite is wonderful. I can eat most anything I want, and my sleep is sound and restful. I am thoroughly delighted with Tanlae. It is wonderful."

Tanlae is sold by all good druggists. adv.

Mike Mack of Shiocton purchased the two highest priced cows at the pure bred Holstein-Friesian breeders sale Friday. One was Good Hope Fayne Johanna 518055 owned by W. H. SHORTAGE OF PIPE IS HAMPERING WORK

A shortage in water pipes has delayed the work of the Appleton water department in laying mains. The department has a quantity of four-inch mains, but finds it difficult to get enough six-inch pipe. Four carloads were ordered some time ago. The delay in the shipment has kept the department from remaining at any one job until completion. When a section of street has been provided with mains, it must be left for another street for want of pipes. The fluctuating prices of water pipes makes it impracticable to carry a very large stock over winter. The laying of about two miles of main has already been authorized in Appleton for this year.

The pipes are purchased from a concern in Birmingham, Ala. Due to the high price of pig iron, the company would not manufacture any more pipes that was necessary to meet running orders. As a result, the company is now swamped with orders and is unable to meet them.

William Meltz of Twelve Corners has decorated his hall extensively with national colors in preparation for the Memorial Day dance to be given there.

SPEED COPS ARE THICK ON NORTHERN HIGHWAYS

Motorcycle cops, both state and county, are found on almost every highway in the northern lake region according to E. P. Boland of the Automotive Service company. Mr. and Mrs. Boland have returned from an automobile trip to the northern part of the state. They became members of the "speeders' club" of Wausau when caught by an officer at Rothschild for exceeding the rural speed limit.

OLD LAWRENCE MAN HERE TO FORM KIWANIS CLUB

Eltinge Elmore of Milwaukee, field representative, was in Appleton Friday looking over the ground for the organization of a Kiwanis club. He said he met with much encouragement.

Mr. Elmore is engaged in the real business in Milwaukee. His first visit to Appleton was in 1863, when he came here to attend Lawrence college. He made his home in the family of Dr. Steele, then president, but remained here only a year. From here he went to Northwestern university from which he graduated in 1866.

When Mr. Elmore attended the college the main hall was the only building. He attempted to locate the residence of Dr. Steele, but the charge was so great he was unable to do so. Quite a number of students at that time roomed on the upper floors of the main hall, he said.

THE TARIFF GAME

Every disinterested citizen in the United States will approve Judge E. H. Gary's declaration that the time has come when the tariff ought to be taken out of politics and duty fixed by a non-political commission of high minded and qualified experts. The manner in which the tariff revision is being handled by congress has resulted in wide spread public revolt. It is perfectly apparent that the schedules in the Fordney measure, whether as originated by the houseways and means committee or amended by the senate finance committee are framed with no regard to the factors that ought to enter into sound tariff making and are designed solely to give protection to special interests. Political considerations and the appetite of these special interests for favoritism may dictate.

Every consumer in the United States knows there is no justification for larger protection of American industries than that given under the Payne-Aldrich act, a law which was overwhelmingly repudiated by the nation. Yet the Fordney bill contains higher schedule. Mr. Fordney has never pretended to be anything else but an extreme high tariff advocate, committed to a policy of protection that bears no relation to economic relationship but is conceived solely to meet the assumed need of its beneficiaries. Mr. Fordney does not care what the facts are. He takes the word of the special interests for what they want, and so does every other politician in congress who is in favor of catering to these interests. In the main, the stand-pat element subscribed to this doctrine and is inseparably affiliated with special interests in tariff making. Laws it has enacted in the past, such as the Dingley and the Payne-Aldrich act, bled the American consumers out of hundreds of millions of dollars for the benefit of interests that were overprotected or in many instances needed no protection at all. These beneficiaries of an extortionate tariff were the chief contributors to the campaign fund, and to the financial support of their tools in congress. Under this system the most vicious practices grew up and as a whole it was a rank imposition on the American people. It was an out-and-out policy of greed, and never pretended to be anything else.

Take the present bill and let us see what some of the industrial interests themselves think of it. The manufacturers of shoes are on record that the duty on hides will fleece the American consumers out of more than $150,000,000 annually without bringing them or any other industry material benefit. The carded wool manufacturers association has sent a petition to congress denouncing the Fordney wool schedule as "an instrument for the stifling of industry, the adulteration of wool clothing and the exploitation of the many for the benefit of the few." According to their figures the duty on wool will increase the annual cost of the people's clothing by $300,000,000, and provide them with shoddy clothing at that. This course of high price and inferior clothing will not fall on the people with incomes of $5,000 and up, but on the 100,000,000 American people who depend on smaller incomes and with whom every penny counts. The wool and hide schedules are samples of other equally iniquitous and indefensible schemes. The farmer who is flattered with duty on nearly everything he grows is being buncoed by the tariff bill as is no other class. His production cost will be increased out of all proportion to any possible increases in the price of what he has to sell. Already as an exporting industry agriculture depends upon foreign markets for its surplus production to reap the highest prices. These markets will be cut out or greatly curtailed by the Fordney act, to the farmer's heavy damage.

The making of a tariff bill today is simply a scramble for a favor. The politicians having it at hand set out to bribe the interests to whom they look for votes and financial assistance with duties that will enhance their profit and provide for their enrichment. Some cash in and others are cash out. It is altogether wrong and vicious and demoralizing. It will never be any different so long as it is left in the keeping of congress. If the present administration wants to solve the tariff problem, and to remove it as an agency of political barter, it will follow Judge Gary's advice and transfer it to an expert commission.

PROGRESS WITH THE WATERWAY

Secretary Hughes announces that negotiations have been opened with Canada for the conclusion of the treaties looking to the deepening of the St. Lawrence waterway on the lines proposed by the International Joint commission. President Harding has repeatedly given his unqualified approval of the project. He renewed his approval, only a few days ago in the face of the traveling campaign by Governor Miller from New York against it. The administration, therefore, is committed in both a positive and aggressive way to the St. Lawrence waterway, and to its authorization at the earliest practicable moment. Although there is opposition in Canada notably Montreal, to the undertaking, sentiment as a whole in that country unquestionably favors the waterway and we may expect the Canadian government to promptly accept our invitation and proceed to the negotiation of the treaty. There will then remain only ratification of the treaty, which will be a formality, and the necessary legislation by congress to authorize and pay for construction.

New York persists in its opposition to the improvement but each succeeding development in connection with it only emphasizes New York's isolation and its failure to enlist others in its work of obstruction. The case in favor of the St. Lawrence waterway has been established conclusively and irrefutably. Governor Miller is only wasting his time going about the country trying to talk it down. The canalization of the St. Lawrence is a national project in the truest sense of the word. Efforts to make it appear as sectional are childish. Forty-three million people live in the territory served by the Great Lakes. Half of them are farmers. The agricultural prosperity of America is chiefly with these farmers. The saving in transportation affected by the waterway will add from five to seven cents to the value of a bushel of grain. It is a simple mathematical calculation to show that it is worth more to the United States than the entire cost of the canal, while industry will progress with agriculture, the consumer will be equally benefited.

Low transportation costs are one of our greatest national needs. They are second in an economic sense only to the need of adequate facilities to the extent that the building of this waterway will increase transportation facilities. To that extent it will be a benefit to the entire nation. In reality, therefore, the project appeals to the whole population of the United States and to every section. It may benefit some section more than others, but that is true of the Panama Canal, the Mississippi River, irrigation, reforestation and all other national undertakings. Indirectly their benefits are distributed and reflected throughout the country. This will be true of the St. Lawrence waterway the same as of any other great public work. What difference does it make to the United States as a whole whether commerce is handled through the port of New York, the port of Chicago or the port of San Francisco, so long as it is handled most cheaply, most advantageously and most expeditiously?

Setting the World's Clocks
The Annapolis radio station has succeeded in sending a time signal around the earth. In an experiment a few days ago it flashed the correct time to Australian stations, the waves reaching the antipodes from all directions. Time elapsed between the sending of the signal and its receipt on the opposite side of the earth was one-fiftieth of a second.

It is possible now to set all the clocks in the world from one time station, all practically at the same instant.

It should be possible very soon for all human beings on earth, supplied with simple receiving apparatus, to hear a bit of music or a song at the same time.

Radio is giving new conceptions of the smallness of the world and the closeness of our neighbors.—WICHITA EAGLE.

Mass meetings occasionally demonstrate that witness of sentiment does not prevent a man from making a dry speech.—WASHINGTON STAR.

DYING WITH THE HEAT

Infants do really die from the effects of excessive summer heat, particularly in households where crowding is the rule. This does not necessarily imply poverty and tenement dwelling conditions; too many families these days put up with close, crowded living conditions for which they pay exorbitant rent, merely to be "near father's work" or perhaps just to be in the center of the excitement of the city—for you know it is so lonesome far from the movies and the noise. Yes, the babies die off like flies, or rather unlike flies, more's the pity, in the dogdays soon to come.

On the other hand, people who are always threatening to succumb to the heat, who declare solemnly and lugubriously they are just "dying with the heat" never do what they threaten to do, more's the pity. They die, all right, a good many of 'em, but not from the heat. Rather they succumb to too much massage—massage of the esophagus with proteins, fats, carbohydrates.

Speaking of heat and folks just dying with it, the dog days are certainly hard on big eaters. Fat folks are of course big eaters, they all seem to have birdlike appetites, to hear them tell it, they wouldn't be so fat if they didn't habitually eat more than their output of energy calls for. Very well, then, it is not because folks are too fat that they suffer so with the heat; it is because they eat too much.

Take the item of proteins alone, that is, the nitrogenous substance in foods, both animal and vegetable foods. Scientists engaged in the great work of wresting from nature the secrets of human nutrition talk learnedly of the "specific dynamic action of protein," meaning an excess of heat produced when a high protein diet is taken, and the body has to rid itself of this excessive heat somehow other than by muscular or organic work. So there you have a secret worth knowing—that it is much easier for a near vegetarian to keep cool in the hot season. Of course vegetables and fruits contain some protein, but the principal sources of protein are cheese, eggs, fowl and meat. Most people who overeat owe their impaired health and lowered efficiency rather to an excess of the carbohydrates (sugars and starches). But in the dogdays it is well to give the butcher a vacation and to go as easy as possible on the eggs and cheese.

Milk contains protein material, but only a moderate amount as compared with meat, cheese and eggs. Milk, or rather the germs with which it is always more or less contaminated on its way from cow to consumer, is injuriously affected by the heat. The summer heat encourages more rapid multiplication of germs present in milk. The heat employed in pasteurization, provided this process is properly conducted (and sometimes it is not), destroys any germs of tuberculosis, diphtheria, typhoid, or any streptococci (germs of septic sore throat or general blood poisoning) which may be in the sample pasteurized. At the same time the heat of pasteurization destroys an essential factor, the scurvy preventing vitamin, of milk. Therefore, mothers should remember, every infant fed with pasteurized milk should be given every day some orange juice or some tomato juice (fresh or canned tomato), to supply this indispensable vitamin and keep the baby safe from scurvy.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Solution of Rubber in Benzol
Please let me know whether a solution of raw rubber in benzol is injurious to the health of a man working with it. I use it in a factory, coating gaskets to keep cans watertight. Sometimes I get very dizzy when I get a strong whiff of it.—H. J. C.)
Answer—Benzol (also called benzene) is a coal tar distillate which is coming into wide use in this country, not only as a solvent, but in making varnishes, shellacs and quick drying paints, in the dry cleaning industry, and perhaps in making rubber goods. It has been extensively used in Europe for these purposes. Not only does it produce dizziness when inhaled, but it may cause grave or even fatal injury to the nervous system. Experts in industrial hygiene describe the introduction of benzol as "a disastrous innovation in industry." When such an agent is necessarily used in a factory the most efficient fan or exhaust ventilation should be supplied for the safety of the worker.

Parsnips Exhumed in the Spring
Kindly inform me whether it is true as some people say, that parsnips left in the ground all winter and dug up in the spring, have a poisonous effect if eaten. —(P. P.)
Answer—Not such as you would notice. If you hesitate to eat them, let me give you my home address and send 'em to me. I never permit Mrs. Sumner to take the joy out of my life.

Coffee Affects the Kidneys
Does drinking coffee affect the kidneys in any way?—(Mrs. S. M. H.)
Answer—Yes, an average cup of coffee contains an average medicinal dose of caffeine, which is a stimulant to the kidneys. This is one reason why coffee is bad for young children and good for most adults.

Fletcherizing
Does Fletcherizing aid digestion to any extent?—(A. P. W.)
Answer—I should not advocate such practice, at least not to the extreme Fletcher urged. But probably thorough mastication helps the digestion of carbohydrates, (vegetables, fruits, cereals, sugar, etc.)

Resume of American and Foreign Newspaper Opinion

INCREASED PRICE OF GASOLINE IS UNWARRANTED

A general protest has gone up throughout the country because of the rapid increases in the price of gasoline. Almost without exception editors declare that there are evidences of collusion among the producers to "milk" the consumers and are demanding that the Congressional and Department of Justice inquiries be pushed to an early completion.

That there seems no excuse for the increased price is argued by the Wheeling DAILY NEWS, which recalls that "the war has been over four years and the country has the greatest gasoline reserve in its history. The demand also is the heaviest in many months but what has become of the well known law of supply and demand?" The fact that since December the price has been advanced in Michigan five cents a gallon is cause for alarm to the entire motor industry the Bay City TIMES TRIBUNE points out because "prospective buyers will go slowly in the face of increasing prices because they know gasoline is already so high that it leaves them on the fence as to whether to buy. Congress has authorized an investigation of the gasoline situation. So far, so good, but what ever comes out of a congressional investigation except a generous cost of whitewash?" The Congressional investigation, however, the Richmond TIMES DISPATCH hopes, "may throw some light on the phenomenon of a group of great competitors in the oil industry deciding at the same time to raise the price of their gasoline to exactly the same extent. The millions of gasoline consumers in this country will be interested to know how this could be possible without some interchange of ideas on the part of the competitors."

Suggestion that the object of the raise is "to discourage sales with the purpose of enlarging the reserve to a billion gallons," leads the Mobile REGISTER to declare that "if this is so the gasoline using people are called upon to pay for the carrying out of a business policy which may or may not be sound, and over which they have no control. To ordinary observers the affair seems to be simply the grabbing of two or more extra cents per gallon by the companies that conduct the sales of fuel gas."

In this very connection the Nashville BANNER argues that "during the past year oil has been produced at a great reduction in cost, and the refiners have been laying in enormous stocks of oil and gasoline at low prices. The trouble with both senatorial and department of justice investigations is that they are too often merely matters of red tape." The Independent Oil Producers, the Standard Oil-Dohney-Sinclair interests "will have the direct result of depressing the price of crude oil without in any way relieving the people of the onerous and burdensome high prices of refined products which include gasoline."

"When the tremendous consumption is considered," the St. Paul DISPATCH emphasizes, "an advance of but a cent a gallon running to millions of dollars, becomes a matter of great importance. The public wants nothing that is not fair. The impression which is common is that the price is too high. New methods have cheapened the refining process and increased the percentage of profit and the consumer has taken no benefit. Part of the inquiry might properly be devoted to ascertaining how this process, protected by patent, operates with the several refiners and whether royalty costs are carried into higher gasoline prices." The arguments of the oil companies to justify the advance, "that the advancing prices are economically necessary are not borne out by the facts" the Buffalo NEWS believes pointing out that "the increase in consumption of gasoline for the first quarter of the year was only seven per cent and there is official testimony to the fact that production costs have been lowered. In some parts of the country there have been four increases on prices of automotive fuel in the last six weeks. The suspicion that there is a 'gentleman's agreement' among the oil companies has been suggested before. There seems to be sufficient cause for a thorough inquiry at an early date as to how far it extends."

Ten million users of the fuel are interested in this subject the Charleston EVENING POST recalls because "it is estimated that the gasoline bill of automobile users in the United States amounts annually to a billion dollars and an increase of twenty to twenty-five per cent in the price would be an interesting sum of money and exceedingly useful to the producers. That there will be any prosecutions from the investigation is hardly to be expected, but the consumer will be satisfied if the demonstration brings down the cost a few cents per gallon."

In this connection the Watertown STANDARD points out that "pyramiding the price of gasoline recalls the sugar manipulation of three years ago. The result was that with an aroused public sugar dropped to and has remained at a pre-war level. While 13 cent gasoline is not to be anticipated consumers in the face of increased production and reserve are hoping the story of sugar will be repeated. Firm action by the government at once may help. The consumer doesn't object to paying if the cost of production justifies the price, but he does object when the big companies make an abnormal profit."

There may be an explanation for the increase, however, the Geneva DAILY TIMES suggests, in the fact "that the consumption reports of the Bureau of Mines dealt with only the domestic consumption omitting any estimate as to exports."

Every community in the land is interested in having the price kept right in the view of the Kalamazoo GAZETTE because "gasoline has become a vitally essential fuel. Any unnecessary and unjustified rise in price must be opposed with all the force the government can command because such an increase will serve as another brake on the wheels of reviving industry. Commerce to a very great extent depends today on the availability of gasoline. High prices of gasoline hits the joyrider, for which we need have no regret, but it hits also the merchant, the manufacturer and the farmer, and upon none does it fall quite so heavily at this time of the year than the latter." There is little hope for relief in the opinion of the Springfield ILLINOIS STATE JOURNAL which asks "after it is all over what shall we know about it? What shall we have accomplished except that gasoline has been one, two, three cents higher and that we have paid it with increased souls and rising choler against the oil trusts, which will cool with the approach of milder weather and falling prices, when we don't care much about gasoline anyway?"

URGES GERMAN COMPLIANCE

Berlin—Maximilian Harden's weekly, DIE ZUKUNFT, urges the German nationalists to hasten and satisfy France's demands; otherwise, it declares, France will take things into her own hands on May 31, and "it will then be too late." The paper says: "In a few weeks the time will be due for a decision to be made relative to the moratorium for Germany. This will take place at Paris, not on the banks of the Thames or on the Mediterranean. What is going to happen? In order to be capable of paying, Germany needs a foreign loan. Money lenders will demand mortgage preconditions. For France to agree and give up her priority she must rapidly obtain large sums to fill up the greatest holes in the budget and will allow her to justify the French surrender in the eyes of the small farmers and landholders. Thus a big loan is necessary and a long term moratorium. At least 30 billion marks. France, Great Britain and the war neutrals should give security for two-thirds. Germany would herself guarantee the other third. This she can do if her industry puts a 'discount signature' at her disposition."

"Collaboration with Germany, which is so much desired in France by reasonable people, would then become possible, the rapid recovery of our economic situation would become the aim of French desires, and the way would be open to understanding, to disarmament and to the United States of Europe. Preliminary condition: a financial agreement which would procure for the French large sums, ease the burden of the floating debt, and inspire confidence in Germany's desire to do her duty peacefully. Great Britain would be obliged to help, and America would do the same; this union would be capable also of saving Russia, while Russia would give an opportunity for remunerative work. The first step will be the fatal and decisive day. It is nothing happens before that date to reassure France she will make use of her military power and that of her allies to put an end to her uncertainty, and it will be too late then to stop her. Do the German nationalists and the people's party refuse to understand that the time has come to stop complaining and making futile retorts, but rather to march courageously forward towards the liberating dawn?"

BRITISH REVIVAL OF COUNTERFEITING

London—There has been a revival of counterfeit coinage lately, partly helped by the manner in which the new silver coinage gets discoloured, and a quiet steady but precarious living is being made by little groups of men working in secret in back rooms or cellars of houses in poor neighborhoods the Times says.

The counterfeiters are remarkably good, considering the makeshift character of these men's methods, for an old sauceman is usually the melting pot, and a few files and some plaster of Paris moulds complete the outfit. The more elaborate counterfeiters have an electro-plate bath in which the spurious coins are suspended so that a thin film of silver may be deposited to hide the baser metal, but the smaller fry are content with the mere outward resemblance of the valvay. Various tricks are resorted to in order to get the ring into the coin, and one man used to favor with coppered rollers to melt in some of the coins, unless in a very small way, do not usually dispose of their spurious coin themselves, but sell the output to other "crooks," who make a specialty of passing it on to the public. In fact, the bigger men will not sell to people in their own district, but find someone on the other side of London from their working place to act as a distributing agent. Half-crowns and florins, as being two popular coins, are most in favor with the counterfeiters, and they sell their output at something like 12 to 16 to the pound, which leaves a handsome profit to the man passing them, and, no doubt, a better profit to themselves.

Slump In Germany

The general business slump, which began in Germany during April, continues. Money is tightening there, banks charging 10 per cent for long-time loans.

That is the cable report to our Department of Commerce from Commercial Attache Herring, stationed at Berlin.

It is important news, more vital than most of the political happenings on the other side of the Atlantic. For the whole future of Europe, for at least the next five years, depends on keeping the Germans at work. Idle nations, like idle men, cannot pay their bills.

PENNIES
Gasoline isn't the only thing that is moving up in price. Steel in the last 60 days has risen an average of about $3 a ton. Common brick advances, New York paying as high as $20 a thousand for what recently cost $18.50. Coffee in many cities rises 2 and 3 cents a pound.

Signs point to a secondary period of inflation. But it will be a short one, if the precedent of past deflationary periods repeats.

A penny is added here, a penny there. The humble penny is what keeps most of us poor and makes a very few rich.

Paris is amazed at a hotel porter who steps forth as an authority on the Einstein theory. It develops that he is highly educated, trained for one of the intellectual professions. He says he prefers being a porter, because it pays more money.

The machine shops of America probably have more men who understand Einstein than so-called high-brow circles. Some of the best and most philosophical brains in our country are running lathes. Astronomical and other sciences get more discussion over the dinner-pail than over the noonday-lunch table of the expensive hotels.

The plain people do a lot more thinking than their leaders give them credit for. That is the chief reason the bulk of our great men and

Q. How much water is needed for raising crops by irrigation? E. W. P.
A. The amount of water needed for raising such crops varies with the character of the soil, but agricultural investigators have found that from 300 to 500 or more pounds of water is required for every pound of dry matter produced.

Q. When was the first orchestra established in America? T. W.
A. Bethlehem, Pa., is the most remarkable town musically in the United States. The settlement had an orchestra as early as 1780. Their modern musical festival is often referred to as the American musical Oberammergau or the American Bayreuth.

Q. How many kinds of birds are there in our own United States? M. E. R.
A. There are 800 distinct kinds of birds in this country. They are divided into 69 families, of which 20 families are classed as waterfowl, 7 as shorebirds, 4 as upland game birds, 5 as birds of prey and 33 as land birds.

Q. Why are the upper parts of many lamp globes frosted? H. Q. T.
A. The effect of frosting the upper part of a lamp is to diffuse the light which would ordinarily go through the glass without alternation of direction. By this the light is sent out more uniformly in all directions, the frosted glass becoming a secondary source of light. There is also a small increase in the light sent downward through the clear part of the bulb, due to the diffusion.

Q. How many books have been published? C. W. Q.
A. It is estimated that over 155,000 books, pamphlets and magazines are published annually and that 14,000,000 separate works have been published since printing was invented in the fifteenth century.

Q. How tall is a baby at birth? J. C.
A. A new born baby is about 20 inches tall, and at the end of its third year of life has attained half of its adult height.

Q. What is meant by "seven pound lead"? D. F. S.
A. In plumbing, the term is used to indicate sheet lead of such thickness that one square foot would weigh seven pounds.

Q. How long have inheritance taxes been employed to raise public funds? D. N.
A. The raising of public funds by inheritance taxes has been sanctioned by legislation since the beginning of Roman law.

Q. Was the name of the city of Cleveland originally spelled "Cleveland"? T. B.
A. The city of Cleveland was named for Moses Cleveland, leading shareholder of the Connecticut Land Company, who founded the first settlement on the site of the present city. The spelling of the name was changed in 1830 when the Cleveland Advertiser was established and the editor dropped the "d" in the first syllable in order to get the headline into the form.

WANT EVERY MAN AND BOY TO LEARN ART OF SWIMMING

Registration for Free Swimming Classes at Y. M. C. A. Now is Underway

Registration has begun at the Y. M. C. A. for the free public swimming classes which are to be conducted for men and boys for two weeks beginning June 5. It is expected that several hundred will avail themselves of this opportunity to learn the double art—the enjoyment of water sports and the ability to save one's own life or that of another.

"We are distributing registration cards to every organization and large business house in the city," said R. H. Starkey, physical director. "We are asking that these cards be placed in the hands of all who need the instruction we are offering. The cards are to be returned to me by Thursday June 1, so we can group the applicants into classes of moderate size."

NO SELFISH OBJECT
"There are no selfish objects behind this movement," Mr. Starkey said. "It is an effort to put a large number of men and boys in Appleton in a position where they can take care of themselves in the water and derive a great deal of pleasure out of swimming. The lessons cost nothing and we do not require that the person be a member of the Y. M. C. A. No bathing suit or other equipment is needed and towels may be obtained at the building."

Every man or boy who registers will be notified by mail or telephone what class he is in and at what hours he is to attend. The plan is to have five swimming periods a day. Boys will have the early afternoon hours and the young men and older persons the late afternoon and evening hours. The schedule will be so arranged that each will be given three lessons within one week. It is expected that all will know the fundamentals of swimming by that time but those who do not qualify will be given further instruction. Everyone who does not know how to swim is eligible.

Regular classes among members now in progress will not be interfered with by the new schedule.

Appleton U. C. T. Is Making Strong Bid For 1924 State Convention

City is to be Extensively Advertised at State Meeting in Fond du Lac—Artillery Band Will Present Concert.

"Appleton wants you in 1924." That slogan will be heard and seen all over Fond du Lac when the Appleton delegation of several hundred people arrive there June 1 for the state convention of the United Commercial Travelers in session Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The thousands of delegates will know Appleton is "on the map" because the Artillery band has been engaged to accompany the local travelers and stay through the 3-day period. One hundred fifty members of Appleton council and their families will take the trip. A special interurban car has been chartered and will leave here at 7:15 Friday morning, the big day. It will return at 10 o'clock in the evening. The round trip fare is to be $2.24. Many others will go by automobile.

ELECT DELEGATES
George Ewen, M. A. Schwab and W. H. Bonini have been elected official delegates from Appleton to attend the executive sessions. The committee in charge of the arrangements consists of Charles G. Rumph, chairman, George E. Packard, senior counselor of the order here, George R. Bohon, T. A. Gallagher and E. E. Smith.

An avalanche of advertising matter will be used by the Appleton group to further its cause in obtaining for this city the 1924 state convention. Madison has been bidding strongly for the 1923 meeting and probably will get it and Appleton therefore is starting early to win the 1924 event.

ADVERTISE CITY
Napkins made in Appleton and printed in the official colors, blue white and gold will be placed in every Fond du Lac hotel dining room and restaurant. Display cards will be placed in all store windows and smaller cards placed on all hotel dressers. Automobile streamers also are to be used, especially on cars going from Appleton. All will carry the slogan, "Appleton wants you in 1924." Plumes in the council colors will be carried on each automobile also. Appleton headquarters will be at the Palmer house, where the decorations are to be issued.

Appleton will be one of seven cities to take a band to the convention. The others are Milwaukee, Racine, Oshkosh, Marshfield, Madison and Green Bay. The Artillery band is to be honored by giving the Friday evening concert in the downtown district.

Thursday's sessions will be devoted almost entirely to business. Initiation will be conducted by Milwaukee degree team in the evening. Appleton Ladies Auxiliary to the U. C. T. will put on the work for the auxiliary. A joint entertainment will follow, with vaudeville and refreshments.

Friday morning there will be a reception and sightseeing trip for ladies. The big convention parade will be at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The Appleton contingent will wear white duck trousers, dark coats and straw hats. The convention ball will be in the evening.

Saturday there will be a boaride, ball game and other recreation and addresses by several prominent orators.

A number of important problems will be taken up at the executive sessions. One of these will be the Great Lake St. Lawrence deep waterway. Reductions in passenger and freight rates will be discussed and general improvement of traveling conditions will be urged.

Memorial Day

EACH Memorial Day through the past years we have watched the column of gallant men pass by—proudly bearing their battle flags, fifes swirling, drums rolling—through the streets of the old town. A quiver has run up our backs, we've stepped a little brisker, our chests out a bit further even though our eyes dimmed for a minute after they had passed. These men marching reverently, proudly to do honor to their fallen comrades, have reminded us that we had many things to be proud and grateful for—that we are citizens of the United States of America and that these men had handed down to us a free nation.

To us, fellow Legionnaires, this glorious day is a direct inheritance, not only as Americans, but as veterans of a war fought victoriously for a righteous cause and a better world.

Each man and woman whom we honor on this day won the war for us—their part may have been small and unsung but to all of them equal honor is due. They gave their all. And as we line up with our post, in our old regiments—the proudest raiment any American can ever wear, the uniform of our country—think of those buddies who did not come back, of their mothers and fathers who are watching you, grateful for this little tribute to their boys—our comrades who gave their lives, that we might enjoy the citizenship of this nation.

"Dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion."

National Commander

Mrs. Herman was born in Germany, Dec. 2, 1840 and came with her parents to the United States in childhood. They settled on a farm at Theresa, Dodge co., where she lived until her marriage to Charles Herman Jan. 14, 1870.

In 1871 Mr. and Mrs. Herman moved to Cicero where they bought a farm on which they lived until 1910. They bought a house in the village, where Mrs. Herman lived until her death.

The funeral will be from St. Johns church at two o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Decedent is survived by her widow, one son, Edward of Cicero; one brother, Fred Noach, Cicero; two sisters, Mrs. Sophia Breitag, Lomira, and Mrs. Frank Treager, Mayville.

INJURED IN FALL

Mrs. G. A. Breamer fell while going down the rear steps of her home Monday, and broke a bone in her hand, and injured her foot. She thought at first she was not so badly injured but her hand began to swell. She had an X-ray picture taken which showed that a bone was broken.

BRANDT SIGNS TWO MEN FOR HIS BALL TEAM

OUTFIELDER AND FIRST BASEMAN ADDED TO ROSTER

Herzog Will Take Charge of Squad When It Plays Green Bay Sunday

With a new manager directing the play, and with two new players signed to do battle, owner August Brandt will send a team to Green Bay Sunday afternoon that is expected to put Appleton in the win column of the Fox River Valley Baseball league. As announced early in the week, Brandt has signed Jack Herzog, former manager of the Manitowish team of the Lake Shore league, to manage his Appleton aggregation and Jack will take the helm in the Sunday afternoon game.

Similarly Herzog and Brandt have been scouring possibilities all over the state and have finally signed two players, one from Milwaukee, the other from Wauwatosa, men of recognized baseball ability. The new men are Jimmy Britz, former Milwaukee Red Sox star, who will shine on first base for the Brands Sunday afternoon; and Gardner, a Wauwatosa boy, said to be a mighty good outfielder and hitter, who will play centerfield. Duran will play right field, Lucien will play left field, Goode will play at shortstop, his regular position. Goble will cover second base, Eraby third base, while Schultz and Shott will form the battery. Schultz is in tip-top condition, he reports, and eager to get a crack at pitching to the league leaders.

In the other games of the valley circuit Sunday afternoon, Menasha, leading the league with Green Bay, will oppose the Fond du Lac squad at Menasha at Menasha Recreational grounds, while Kaukauna will venture into Oshkosh and attempt to take the Sawdust City Athletics into camp on their home grounds.

THREE DOUBLES IN NATIONAL LEAGUE

Reds and Cubs Split Even—Giants Beat Braves Twice—Phillies Lose Two

Cincinnati—The Reds and Cubs broke even in the first local double header of the season on Friday. Chicago won the first game easily, Cheever outpitching Rixey by a wide margin. In the second game Rixey, recruited from the Western association, making his first appearance in the big league, held the visitors to four hits and beat them 2 to 1. Malsel was hit in the head by a thrown ball in the first game and forced to retire, but was not seriously injured. Umpire O'Day ejected Manager Killefer and Coach Dughey from the field in the second game for loud talking from the bench. Score:

After hitting three singles in the opener, Groh recovered five walks in six times up in the second. Score:

DOAK WINS SEVENTH
St. Louis—Doak of the Cardinals won his seventh victory of the season on Friday from Pittsburgh, 6 to 2, thereby breaking a losing streak of five games for the locals. Hornsby pushed his way into the ranks of the home run sluggers in the fifth inning when he knocked one of Cooper's slow ones over the left field fence, marking his eleventh circuit drive of the season. He needs one more to tie Kenneth Williams of the St. Louis American, leading major league home run hitter of the season. Score:

Pittsburgh . . . 0 1 0 0 1 0 0 0—3 6
St. Louis . . . 3 0 0 1 2 0 0 0—6 11

Veach Is Old School Slugger

There is only one 100 per cent natural hitter, or free swinger, in the American League and he is Bob Veach, left fielder of the Detroit Tigers.

Since Napoleon Lajoie led the batsmen, free swingers have become about as removed from baseball as the dodo from this earth. Lajoie was a natural batsman, probably the greatest that ever faced a pitcher. Lajoie's success prompted batsmen to accept the free swing as the proper method of bat.

Lajoie passed and in his place came Ty Cobb. Cobb, the game's greatest scientific batsman, never has been a natural batsman, never a free swinger. He is a chop hitter, meeting the ball in front with a chop stroke.

His success brought about a change in batting style and the newcomers followed his example. The great batsman that strung along with Cobb, Tris Speaker, George Sisler, Eddie Collins and others are all exponents of the chop stroke, all scientific hitters.

The natural batter "takes a hasty cut at the ball" in the parlance of the sport. "He swings from the ear with a perfect follow through." Veach is the only man in the American League that does this today. No matter what pitcher he opposes, what situation he happens to find himself in, Veach always swings with the same motion, always takes a long cut, "from the ear."

Babe Ruth, greatest slugger of all times, is frequently classed as a natural batsman. Ruth is a free swinger more than anything else, but not a 100 per cent free swinger.

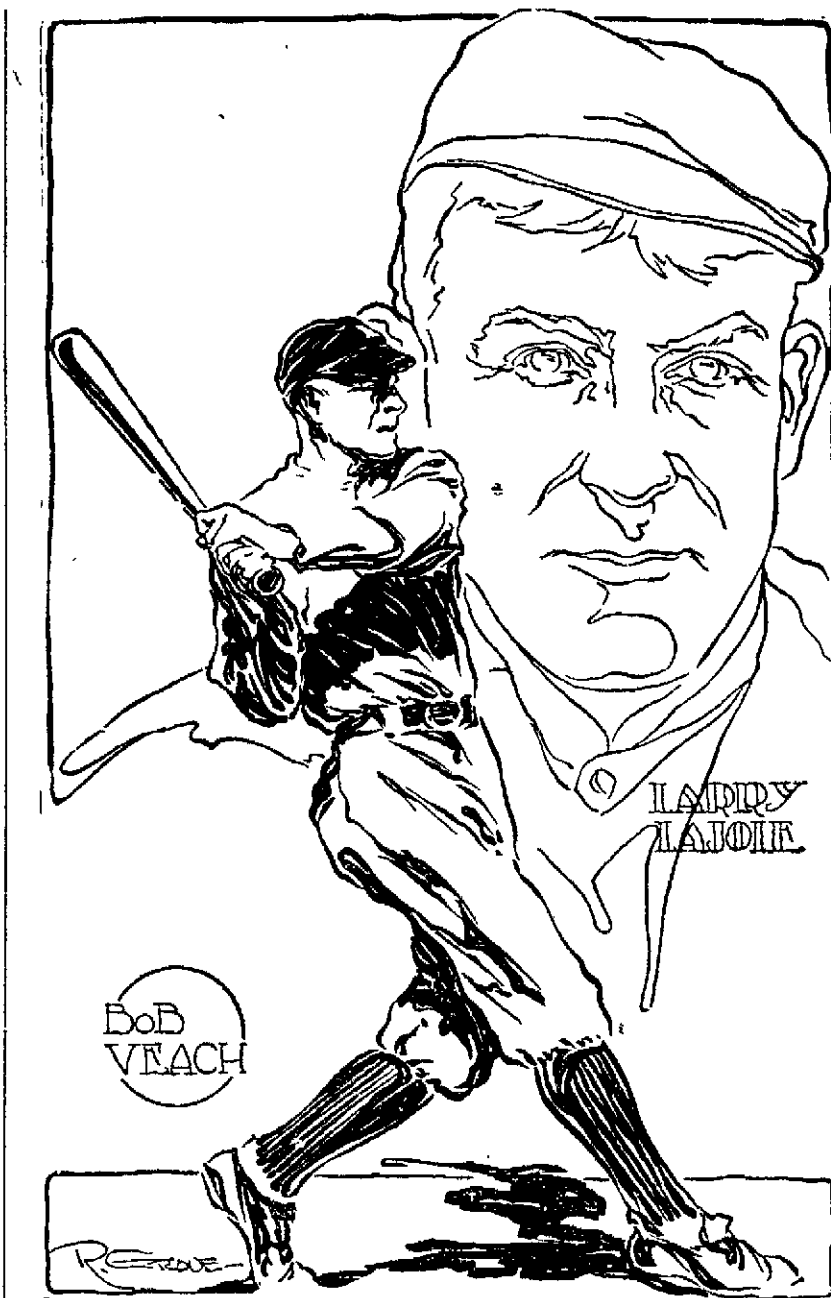

Not infrequently Ruth changes his batting style, slapping the ball, which is another form of the chop stroke. Most of the time, though, Ruth takes the nastiest cut in all history.

LIST OF THE SLUGGERS
Harry Heilmann, batting champion of the American League for 1921, is an "almost perfect free swinger, but occasionally he switches to the chop stroke.

New York has several players classed as free swingers, Bob Muesel, Wally Pipp, Frank Baker and Wallie Schang.

Larry Gardner and Steve O'Neill are Cleveland's candidates, while Bob Fark and Johnny Mostil are the Chicago members.

St. Louis, with its array of heavy sluggers, can list but two, Williams and Collins.

Washington has Walter Johnson and Howard Shanks. Boston can point to Mike Menosky, George Burns and Elmer Smith, and Philadelphia claims "Tillie" Walker, Jimmy Dykes and Welsh.

The so-called free swingers are very much in the minority, but in this small list the only one that is a simon-pure free swinger is the swarthy Veach, who goes on season after season, swinging in the same old fashion without change or thought of change.

LAWRENCE TRACK MEN COMPETE IN BIG RIPON MEET

McChesney Has Little Hope That His Team Will Place With Little Five

Coach H. D. McChesney and his Lawrence college track team left Saturday morning for Ripon, where the Blue and White will compete with other Wisconsin colleges of the "Little Five" conference in the annual track and field event of the conference this afternoon.

Though there is little hope that the local college representatives will be able to take a team place in the event, the men, who are in good condition are expected to show up well in a number of events.

Prospects brightened somewhat when it was announced that Capt. Charles Hooley, Lawrence's snappy two-miler, and his brother, Leigh Hooley, Lawrence's one-miler, who have been out of the game with injuries, might be able to enter in their events.

The men whom Coach McChesney took with him to Ripon—Capt. Hooley, Fishbeck, and Kubic, two milers; Leigh Hooley and Rehbein, one-milers; "Bill" Smith, weights; Folsom and Rucinski, broad jump; Zebell, pole vault; Gehring, Collins and Cook, high jump; Roeder, hurdles; Gean, Schmeigel and Downing, dashes; Hunting and Gribble, 440 yard run.

GREB AND O'DOWD TO MEET JUNE 12

New York—Harry Greb's next fight will find him battling at 161 pounds at 2 p. m., just a pound above the middleweight limit, against Mike O'Dowd of St. Paul, former middleweight champion. Now that he has won the light heavyweight championship of the United States, Greb does not care so much about Johnny Wilson's middleweight title, but he will demonstrate in making the weight for O'Dowd that he is a middleweight capable of beating not only light heavyweights but heavies as well.

The O'Dowd fight will be held in Harry's home town of Pittsburg on June 12.

Sundt is an eight letter man at Wisconsin, having completed in three sports, foot ball, track and basket ball. He was named as full back on a number of mythical all-conference eleven.

Chicago—Mike Dundee of Rock Island knocked out Leo Haukins of Davenport in the third round.

Omaha—Dennis O'Keefe beat Kid Schaefer in 10 rounds.

Denver—Pat Moore beat Babe Asher, bantamweight champion of the A. E. F. in 12 rounds.

County Loop Teams Are Set For Third Games Of Official 1922 Season

Interlakes Primed for Hard Fight With Black Creek—Dale Goes to Kimberly and Hortonville Invades Freedom.

The Outagamie County Baseball league will go into action on its third official game Sunday afternoon, and interest for Appleton fans will be at Interlake park, where, in their second home game of the season, the Interlakes will battle the Black Creek aggregation.

Manager Gregory has been pounding his men all week and has been bolstering up weak spots. He has made several changes and additions to his line up and confidently expects he has found the right combination.

BIG FIELD OF PREP MEN IN TRACK MEET

Chicago—The cream of 1,000 high school assembly athletes from all sections of the country was left to compete in the University of Chicago's interscholastic track and field meet. Judging from showings in yesterday's elimination tests, predictions were made that several records which have stood for years would not survive today's finals.

The meet attracted the greatest list of "prep" stars ever participating in interscholastic trials.

Individual stars stood out yesterday true to prediction but most prominent among them was the much touted "Bud" Houser, lone representative of Orndy, California high school, who already is regarded as possessor of new records in the weight throwing events. Houser qualified in the shot put, javelin and discus throws. In qualifying in the shot put he hurled the ball 44 feet standing flat footed.

Jimmy Draper, Georgetown, Texas athlete who hobbled more than 1,000 miles to compete in the meet, qualified in both events in which he entered, the century dash and the broad jump. Keeble of Austin, Texas, high school, a flyer in the 120 yard hurdles is counted on to bring points out of this event.

Huntington Beach, California, is looked upon as possible winner in the high school section of the meet but Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and Manual Training High, Kansas City, Mo., last year's winners, may upset the dope with Houser and Draper cutting in on points.

The meet is divided into two sections one for high schools and the other for academies.

New Orleans—Pal Moran beat Bob Green in 15 rounds.

KLUWIN LIFTS BAN ON SHEBOYGAN CLUB

Suspension of Two Players Lifted When Lynch Waives Contract Rights

The ban against games with the Sheboygan baseball club, ordered several weeks ago by President John F. Kluwin of the Fox River Valley league after two men jumped their contracts with Green Bay to go to the Chair city, has been lifted by Mr. Kluwin.

The order lifting the ban was issued Saturday after Manager Lynch of the Green Bay team waived his contract rights to Players Wangeman and Kober. The suspension of these two players also is lifted with the provision that no other club in the league may contract them without first obtaining the consent of Manager Lynch. The Sheboygan team, however may keep them if it should be admitted to the Fox river valley league.

Lifting of the ban against Sheboygan means that valley league clubs can book exhibition games with the Lake Shore team.

KAUKAUNA TO INVADE OSHKOSH PARK SUNDAY

Manager Brautigam's Kaukauna baseball team of the valley circuit will meet Oshkosh on the latter's diamond Sunday afternoon. Diederich and Davy will perform for the Electric city crew. The battery will be backed up by a hard working, heavy hitting aggregation.

On Tuesday, Memorial day, Kaukauna goes to Fond du Lac and not to Menasha as has been stated. Fondy started the race in rather bad shape and hopes to slip over a win on Brautigam's coits Tuesday.

All Meat Markets Will Be Closed Memorial Day.

INDIANS HAVE STAR BASEMAN ON BENCH

Tough, to Be Classy Second Best, Guisto of Cleveland is Learning

It is pretty tough to be a cracking good ball player, yet he is forced to remain on the bench simply because on the same club is some player who is just a little better.

That is the situation in which Louis Guisto, first baseman of the Cleveland club of the American League, finds himself.

On probably any other major league club, with the exception of Cleveland and St. Louis, Guisto would have the call at first base. Because Cleveland has "Stuffy" McInnis, one of the greatest first sackers in the history of the game, Guisto is forced to play the role of substitute.

PLAYS FINE BALL
"Only the fact that Cleveland has McInnis keeps Guisto from being a regular," says Manager Tris Speaker of the Indians.

"Guisto is a great hitter. He takes a natural cut at the ball. He is a fine fielder, a great target for the infielders to hit at. For a big man he is mighty fast."

"Guisto certainly is a victim of circumstances. If we would try to give him out of the league I'll wager every other club would claim him."

WILL EARN HIS SALARY
"However, he will earn his salary as a pinch hitter this season. It is also pleasing for a manager to know he has such a capable man on the bench in case of injury."

The case of Joe Evans and Jamieson, also of the Cleveland club, is not unlike that of Guisto.

Evans is a great ball player. Jamieson is also a great ball player. Evans murders left-handed pitching. Jamieson does the same to right-handers.

So instead of being regulars, Jamieson and Evans, star outfielders, simply share the left field berth for the Indians.

TWO FRATERNITIES IN LEAD IN COLLEGE LEAGUE

Delta Iota and Phi Kappa Alpha, the two leading fraternities in the annual inter-fraternity baseball championship race now in progress at Lawrence college, Beta Sigma Phi and Delta Sigma Tau, the new fraternity formed at the local school this year, are trailing the race having lost all their games.

The only game played thus far this season was between the Delta Iota nine and the Phi Kappa Tau aggregation. The latter was hopelessly outclassed and at the end of the third inning surrendered, when a score of 15 to 2 was piled up against it.

Struck Out 20 Men In Game; Near Defeat

In these days of record performances at the bat, in the field and by the pitchers, one cannot overlook a feat recently turned in by a high school twirler at Washington, D. C.

A youngster by the name of Roundbush, pitching for Eastern High School against another Washington preparatory school team, struck out 20 men, yet had his troubles winning the game 10 to 7.

The freakish part of Roundbush's performance came from the second to the sixth inning inclusive. In those five innings he struck out 17 players, an average of better than three each inning.

HOW COME? YOU SAY
Yet in that time his opponents were making five runs on five hits, a walk and an error.

How come, you say? Let us explain.

Although Roundbush struck out 17 men in five innings, two more than enough to retire the opposition, his catcher failed to hold the third strike on three batters, so that only 14 players were actually retired on strikes.

While the teammates were retiring the other man, the opposition managed to shove five runs.

FREAK OF 1922
With Roundbush it was a question of striking them out or base hits. While he officially retired 17 on strikes, three others reaching first because the catcher couldn't hold the third strike, his opponents piled up 11 hits and scored 7 runs, while his teammates were getting the other ten outs.

The performance of Roundbush merits a place with the freak happenings of the year.

INDIANS QUIET TIGERS
Detroit—Cleveland bunched hits off Stoner and Olson and defeated Detroit here on Friday, 8 to 3. Stephenson, who succeeded Gardner at third for the Indians, drove a home run over the left field fence in the first inning with two men on base. Score:

WHITE SOCKS TAKE CLOSE MOUND FIGHT

Schupp Has Best of Bayne—Fans Williams Twice and Drives in Final Run

Chicago—Chicago defeated St. Louis 2 to 1 on Friday in a pitchers' duel between Schupp and Bayne. Schupp, although wild, pitched well in the pinches, striking out the hard hitting Williams twice with runners on third base and might have registered a shutout if Sheely had not tossed the ball wild to McClellan in the sixth inning which enabled Sister to score.

Schupp drove in the winning run with a single in the seventh. The locals' first run was the result of singles by Hooper and Collins, with Mulligan's sacrifice in between. Score:

St. Louis . . . 0 0 0 0 1 0 0—1 6
Chicago . . . 1 0 0 0 0 1 0—2 8
Batteries: Bayne and Severide; Schupp and Schalk.

BOSTON BEATS PHILLIES
Boston—Foster's triple to right center off Bryan Harris' pitched ball in the tenth inning, followed by Ruell's single over short stop on the next pitch, gave Boston a 7 to 0 victory over Philadelphia on Friday. The hitting of Pratt and Menosky was timely. Walker tied the score in the seventh by knocking a homer over the clock in left center. Score:

Philadelphia . . . 0 0 0 0 1 0 0—6 5

He seemed startled and unmistakably affected by the artlessness of this confession, and held her close.

"But, my dearest girl! you're trembling! What is it? Tell me..."

"It's so wonderful to have you back, Lynn. Don't ever leave me for so long again."

"You tempt me to," she laughed indulgently. "I think you've learned to love me better while I've been away than you did in the while that I was here."

She answered with an odd little laugh of love and deprecation: "I really think I have."

They dined at Marcello's, not the happiest selection for their first few hours together, for the place was thronged with picture-fakers.

Motoring to Santa Monica, Lucinda emerged into the hollow of Summerland's arm, and rested a long time in contented silence.

"It is too perfect," she murmured at length, "too sweet to last."

"Why not? So long as we love, what's to prevent all beauty lasting?"

"Life," she said, "it took all her courage to speak of what she had felt then purposely kept back—'Belamy'."

The car was swerving into the street of Santa Monica. Lucinda gave him her lips.

"Let's forget it for tonight. Kiss me again while there's time."

The restaurant to which the Lontaines had bidden them was the one in those times most favored by the froth of the picture colony for its weekly night of carnival.

Round the four walls and enclosing the constricted floor for dancing, tables were so closely packed that passage between them was largely impracticable without a guide. Everybody of any consequence in the studio was there, and everybody knew everybody else and called him by his first name—preferably at the top of his lungs.

Lontaine's party, a large one, comprising the most influential members of the colony with whom he and Summerland were on agreeable terms, had been long enough in session already to have become individually exuberant and collectively hilarious. Summerland took to its bosom with shouts of acclaim, and he seemed to find it easy to catch the spirit of the gathering. A sense of frustration oppressed Lucinda. She had been happy half an hour since. Here in this heady atmosphere of perturbed flesh, tobacco reek and pungent alcohol, the idyl of her evening grew faint and fled. While the man she loved had no regrets.

In a moment of disconcerting lucidity she saw him as a strange man, flushed with drink and blown with license, looking on other women with a satyr's appraising eyes, bandying ribald wheezes with the lips she had so lately kissed. And she winced and drew away, recalling the abandon of affection with which she had given herself to his embrace at the hotel, feeling of a sudden soiled and shopworn as from common handling.

A strange man, a man she had known but a few brief weeks—! Covertly watching him, she saw Summerland in the middle of a passage of jestful start and fall silent, his lips in an instant wiped bare of speech. And following the line of his stare, she espied, at some distance at a table near the edge of the dance-floor, Bellamy sitting with—

He saw her but made no sign more than to intensify his meaning smile, and immediately returned courteous attention to his companion.

At this Lucinda stared in doubt for several seconds, she was so changed. But finery that shrieked of money spent without stint or taste could hardly disguise the wild and ragged loveliness of Nelly Marquis.

Lucinda looked a second time. More than a month had passed since that brief acquaintance, and Lucinda had put her out of mind so completely that her efforts to recall the features of the other conjured up only a foggy impression of a shabby, haggard, haunted shadow, by turns wistful and feebly defiant, that bore what might be no more than chance likeness to this figure of flaunting extravagance at Bellamy's table.

A question forming on her lips, Lucinda turned back to Summerland, but surprised the tail of his eye veering hastily away and favored a glance of over-elaboration in the easy, incurious air he was quick to resume.

She stole another glance across the room. By every indication Bellamy found his company most entertaining; he was paying her sallys a tribute of smiling attention which she as evidently found both grateful and inspiring. While Lucinda was looking she dined her highball glass with an air peremptory and arch planted it in front of Bellamy to be replenished: a service which he rendered with the aid of a pocket flask—adding to his own glass, however, water only.

Summerland was eyeing her with a quizzical air. Lucinda managed half a smile.

"Shall we dance?"

She surveyed the crowded floor dubiously. "It's an awful crush, I'm afraid..."

Nevertheless she got up and threaded the jostling tables with Lynn at her heels.

It was an awful crush. Few better dancers than Lynn Summerland ever trod a ball-room floor, but even he was put to it to steer a safe course in that welter. Lucinda heard a hiss of breath drawn and looked up to see Lynn's face disfigured by a spasm of pain. In the same instant he stopped short, in the next he groaned between set teeth.

"Have to get out of this, I'm afraid," he grunted. "My foot—somebody with a hoof like a sledgehammer landed on it just now. That wouldn't matter, only the confounded thing got caught between a couple of logs while we were doing that river stuff."

He had an affecting limp on the way back to their table where he announced he would have to get home and out of his shoes before he could hope to know another instant's ease.

"Cross, sweetheart?" he inquired gently as they drove off. "I'm sorry you let me drag you away..."

"It isn't that," Lucinda replied, almost brusquely. "I wasn't enjoying myself anyway—wanted to leave almost as soon as we arrived."

"Then what is it?"

She asked evasively: "How's your foot?"

"Much better, thanks. Guess I must've dislocated one of the smaller bones in that logging stunt."

"I thought possibly you were pretending on my account."

"You mean, because your husband was there?"

"It was Miss Marquis wasn't it?"

"Yes, Linda—afraid it was."

"Afraid?"

"Your amiable husband's in for an interesting life, if that young woman has got her claws into him."

"Lynn: where do you suppose the girl has been all this time, since that night she left the hotel? It seems funny she should disappear so completely for—how long is it? four weeks? five—and then turn up in Bell's company."

"Well," Lynn submitted: "I dare say if you were to ask him..."

But immediately Lucinda repented her resentment of what she had hastily taken to be an attempt to belaud impatience with ill timed levity. The man shifted in his corner, till he sat half-facing her, his manner seriously defensive.

"Look here, Linda. I've known a long time you suspected there was something between this Marquis girl and me—or had been—"

Lynn fumbled for and found her hand beneath the rug that covered their knees. "You see—"

"Oh, I see," Lucinda snapped and drew her hand away.

"No, you don't."

"But I do, Lynn, and I'm quite reasonable about it. Only, I presume I needed this to make me understand the kind of a man I'd given my heart to."

"That's unfair. You know perfectly well, nine times out of ten the man isn't to blame. Besides—"

"...It isn't a question with me of blame or excuse, it's just a feeling that's suddenly come over me, that I've committed my life to the care of a man whom I must always share with his memories of other sweethearts."

"Well, but what about my feelings? Do you suppose it makes me funny to be all the time reminded that Bellamy loves me?"

"Please, dear, don't. Forgive me—I couldn't help it. Besides, there's this to be said: If I did love another man before you he was only one, while you have known so many loves like—like this Marquis girl—not, you know, not quite—"

"You're all wrong, about Nelly Marquis. She's one that didn't happen, if you've got to know the truth."

"Oh!" Lucinda commented without emotion—"didn't she?"

"Along with a hundred others. I got the credit for her."

"I daresay, by Hollywood standards, 'credit' is the right word."

"Oh, hang it all, Linda! you must understand. A man in my line—"

"Oh, you know how it is... There'll always be women ready to make fools of themselves over any man who manages to get a certain degree of prominence. I met Nelly Marquis shortly after I'd made my first real dent in pictures. She was so hard hit I used to be afraid to leave the house until I'd sent out scouts to make sure the roast was clear. I've always thought that trouble of hers was more than half responsible for her mania about me."

"What trouble?"

"Dope. She's a hop nut. Coke—cocaine's her big bet. That must've been the trouble, that time you found her stretched: an overdose. I didn't like to tell you because—well, frankly I didn't want you to think so much about the girl."

"Oh, what a pity!"

"Hang it! What I'm trying to say is this: Nelly took to the dope after I'd met her, but only, I believe, because she got in with the wrong crowd. And there's an awful lot of that sort of thing goes on more or less quietly here. They lead one another on. When they've tried everything else they take a chance on the dope to see if there's really anything in it and then they're gone. They drift into little cliques and have parties, other parties and that sort of thing, you know, where they choose one by lot to stay off the stuff and watch the others to make sure nobody strangles to death while they lie around him in a circle—"

Lucinda lifted her hands to her ears. "Please, Lynn, please! I don't want to hear anymore. It's too dreadful!"

THE STAGE

Vaudeville Program

The six act vaudeville program which will be shown at Fischer's Appleton theatre tomorrow at 2:30, 7 and 8:45 will be headed by The Four Musical Crawfords.

Musicians play a large number of instruments and they feature the saxophone. It is said that they are one of the most entertaining quartets in vaudeville. The program will include the latest melodic successes.

The Vannersons will make known a comedy bar act in which they perform a routine of tricks of agility and daring in an original manner. Eddie Rayer will dance, chatter and play the steel guitar. Vance and Allen are credited with being a smart couple who secure good results from songs and comedy patter.

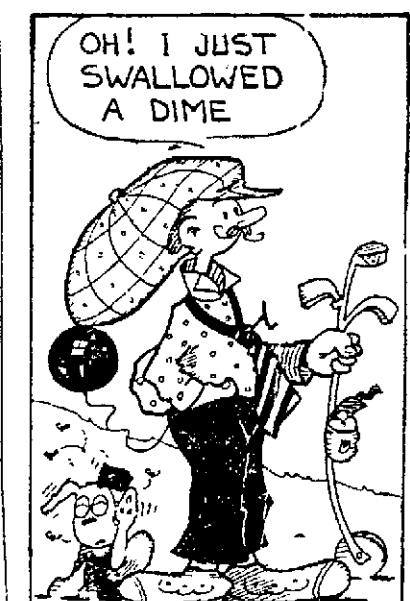

Lloyd and Avis present an eccentric comedy skit introducing special songs and Banett and More have a scene novelty with special scenery. There will be three short comedy motion pictures shown.

Starting Monday the management announces Harold Lloyd in his latest reel comedy "A Sailor-Made Man."

"BUTTERFLY" IS WINNING SUCCESS AS BUSINESS HEAD

Society Leader Becomes Corporation Leader Over Night and Makes Go of It

BY MARIAN HALE
From society woman to president of a large corporation sounds like a long journey, but Mrs. Isabel L. Wharf just made an overnight trip to it.

In just that length of time she was graduated from matinee, teas and other feminine delights to the more sophisticated type of entertainment offered by directors' meetings and business conferences.

Until she assumed the management of a large advertising business in New York, with branch offices in several of the larger cities, she had had no business training.

So when she entered the private office that had been her husband's and took up the business that had been his she had no theories as to how a business should be run and no prejudices against any new methods.

She possessed what we call the open mind.

"At first, I just sat at my desk and absorbed the atmosphere of business about me," she says. "Then I began to learn the various departments of work and I worked up a splendid enthusiasm for every detail of it."

"Now I am devoted to my work, and would not leave it for anything. The foundation upon which I have built my business is this:

"We are in business to render service, and it is by rendering service to the best of our ability that we make our success."

"I make it a point to see to it that everyone in my employ not only gives service but courteous service, or even a little more, but I cannot forgive discourtesy on the part of those in my employ. They break down in a few minutes what I have tried for five years to build up."

"I have found a squareness about business, and the people who are in it, I did not believe existed. I believe thoroughly in the great American public."

In the five years during which Mrs. Wharf has managed the business it has grown rapidly and its profits show a steady gain.

Recently Mrs. Wharf was married again, and now in private life she is Mrs. Rogers, but in business she retains the name under which she made her own success. She believes the good will it carries should not be sacrificed.

ROUTE 2 IS BEST THUS FAR VISITED

Inspection Shows Good Roads and Fewer Violations of Postal Regulations

The star route of Appleton's rural free delivery system is route 2, as far as road conditions and conformity with government postal regulations are concerned. This was the verdict of H. J. French, assistant postmaster, who accompanied Carrier John Freude over his course in connection with the spring route inspection. Mr. Freude carries on the Medina and beyond Greenville.

Much of the route takes one over concrete and macadam roads, which are the rural mail carrier's delight. In fact it has more paved road than any other mail route. Nevertheless, there is a three mile section of clay road from McCann's corners south to the country line that is highly temperamental. It is affected by the weather, very soft after rains, and rough in dry seasons. A still worse section of a half mile is to be found on the Badger school house road extending north of Hammes corners, and is very much in need of attention.

Irregularities in rural mail boxes are perhaps fewer than on other routes, although leaky boxes, broken lids, missing signals, bad approaches are to be found here as well as on the others. A number of old rickety posts, some undoubtedly damaged by automobiles and trucks also were discovered. Patrons will be notified to correct the irregularities.

EXPRESS BUSINESS IS LESS THAN DURING WAR

The American Railway Express Co. has just shipped three of its wagons to Milwaukee for storage. They were in daily use here during the war when nearly everything was sent by express, but have been used only occasionally since. The company is now handling all its business with a double wagon and three single wagons. During the war seven single wagons were used.

YOUR BABY IN HOT WEATHER
Keep Child Cool

GIVE THE SKIN A CHANCE TO COOL OFF

BY MRS. MAX WEST
Late of the United States Children's Bureau

Do not be afraid to strip the baby down to his band when the hottest days come, especially if he is of the run-about age. These active babies who are exercising all the while they are awake, should wear not more than one layer of clothing, at the most, on the days of great heat.

This may be a thin sleeveless band and diaper, or only a waist and drawers. Babies under three months of age and those which are not healthy, cannot be quite so completely undressed, but the amount and weight of their clothes should be much reduced. There is no doubt that many babies suffer seriously from being too heavily dressed.

All-wool underwear should be changed for light-weight gauze, having a very small amount of wool in the weave. Indeed, some physicians now direct that babies born in the spring and summer shall have all cotton shirts and bands. In any event, there is no possible reason for keeping even a young baby swathed in several layers of flannel in hot weather.

Knitted garments, socks, booties, and caps are entirely out of place.

If the baby's feet are cold, light-weight merino stockings that cover the knees and legs evenly are far better. Older babies can go barefooted, except that it is best to protect the tender feet from splinters and bumps by barefoot sandals.

Headcoverings should be light in weight. For tiny babies, silk caps are best, and for run-about, either sun-bonnets or gingham hats when it is necessary to shade their faces from the sun. Rompers have solved the problem for the outer garments for babies and young children, but in the hottest weather they should be of lightweight material, and be made with round neck and short sleeves.

White garments have the advantage of looking cooler, and are easier to wash since they may be boiled, but gingham and crepes are highly favored by mothers.

As the day cools or a sudden storm sends the temperature rapidly downward the mother must be ready to protect the baby from sudden chill by extra clothing.

My returning here had many rich gifts for me. I sat by his side while captive maids spread the rich treasures of the raid before me.

Bart made an elemental conquering Norse lover.

The captive maids who served me were all humble enough—mere slaves—except one. She gazed upon the Viking's wife with the eyes of an equal. And I knew her for a rival in my lord's affection. Each recognized the fact without a word, each guessed the place and the power of the other, knew the truth about the other, as rival women always and everywhere have known. Only the man in a triangle case is ever duped for long.

So ran the play. Before Bart picked me up, he had warned me: "Now, Peggie! Don't make a row! Here's where Jack Madison gets what's coming to him! Don't pinch or bit when I kiss you. Don't stick a pin into me when I hug you, Peggie. You've got nothing to say in this little act."

"Now, if Jack can be made to feel, he's going to have his chance, Peggie. Listen to me: Your Jack is in for a lesson!"

Half way through the scene Jack began to puce up and down the auditorium.

Was he angry? Or disgusted? Or hurt?

The Forgotten Message
Everything inside the little house was as handy as could be and soon Nancy and Nick were as comfy as two bugs in a posy.

Nancy found bread and butter and nice sweet milk on a shelf in the cupboard, as well as some gooseberry marmalade. "We'll have the cake for dessert," she said.

The Twins sat down at a little round table, on two stubby chairs that just fitted, and as they were as hungry as wood chucks after a hard winter they were soon stuffing themselves.

The Twins sat down at a little round table, on two stubby chairs that just fitted, and as they were as hungry as wood chucks after a hard winter they were soon stuffing themselves.

All the while the house talked down its chimney to them and out of the fireplace. And the Twins told him about their adventures, how they had started out to find the lost phonograph record on which were the tones of Longhead, the Wiseman, who lived at the third end of the earth, and how they were to cross the Seven Mountains and stop the quarrel between the Dideyvers and the Korsknotts.

Soon they were ready for the cake, taking it out of the basket so as not to touch the Cloth of Dreams that Twelve Toes had slyly tucked under it.

Nancy found a knife and started to cut a slice, when suddenly the knife struck something hard. She tried another place, but the same thing happened.

"Goodness, it's as hard as a stove-lid in the middle," she cried impatiently.

Just then the house spoke again. "Could it be the lost record?" it asked. "If it is, it's easy to find out, for I have a photograph in the hall."

Household Hints

MENDING HOLES
Fill the holes in the linoleum with finely chopped cork mixed with liquid glue. When the mixture has set rub down with glass paper and color to match the design.

WASH DAY HINT
If a lump of soda is dissolved in the blue water on wash day there will be no danger of the bluing marking the clothing.

FOR GERANICUS
Your geraniums will blossom better if you pour hot coffee into the saucers of the flower pots each morning.

CANDLE COLORS
The craze for candles is increasing, perhaps because candle light is a kind of light. Be sure when you get yours, however, that you do not match your wall paper. The effect is more lovely when the candles contrast rather sharply with the remainder of the furnishings of the room. Black candles are beautiful in gold or brass holders.

EMBROIDERING
When embroidering on material so sheer it does not go into embroidery rings well, base it on white waxed paper. This holds the fabric out quite nicely.

Makes Record As Trainer Of Town Bands

York, Pa.—It's doubtful if any other director in the country has trained as many bands as Prof. M. M. Snyder of Loganville, York county, Pa.

The number's so large the professor has lost count. It amounts to some hundreds of bands, at any rate.

Of late years the professor has concentrated on this part of Pennsylvania. There's not so much as a hamlet in York county without a band of his creation.

Once a year he gives a carnival at PROF. SNYDER near York.

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY

Today's word is ANOMALY. It's pronounced—a-nom-a-li, with accent on the second syllable.

It means—something which 'departs from the common rule, which refuses to be classified or explained.

It comes from—Latin "anomalia," something uneven or irregular.

It's used like this—"It is a strange anomaly of the British parliamentary system that, while a woman is entitled to membership in the house of commons, she may not sit in the house of lords."

IF YOU ARE WELL BREED
You are always thoughtful of others. You follow out the plans your hostess has in mind, even if you prefer to make different use of your time.

You do not permit your personal likes or dislikes to be evident when you meet people.

If you are depressed or in an unhappy mood you keep from imposing this upon others who may be feeling more cheerful.

WOMAN COULD NOT WORK

Made Strong and Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

St. Paul, Minn.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a tired, worn-out feeling and painful periods. Used to get up with a pain in my head and pains in my lower parts and back. Often I was not able to do my work. I read in your little book about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I feel so well now. I recommend your medicine and you can use this letter as a testimonial." — Mrs. PHIL MASER, 801 Winslow St., St. Paul, Minn.

Just another case where a woman found relief by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Many times these tired, worn-out feelings and pains about the body are from troubles many women have. The Vegetable Compound is especially adapted for just this condition. The good results are noted by the disagreeable symptoms passing away—one after another.

Meat And Fruit Dishes

HE combination of fruit and meat cooked together is most unusual but most delicious. Pork and apples are an old combination, the apples often being roasted with the meat or baked in a casserole with chops. Lemon broth is served with the fruit, but few women realize that pineapple broiled with ham, orange slices with lamb and raisins with beef make plain everyday meats into foods to be enjoyed with.

FILET OF BEEF a la POMPADOUR
One and one-half pounds tenderloin of beef, 1/2 cup raisins, 1 cup pineapple cubes, salt and paprika, 4 tablespoons butter.

Trim tenderloin and cut in filets two and one-half inches thick. Melt butter and dip filets in melted butter. Arrange on a well oiled broiler and cover each filet with raisins and pineapple cubes, using half of them.

Broil under flame for eight minutes. Turn and cover with remaining pineapple cubes and broil eight minutes. Season with salt and paprika and put on a hot platter.

Pour drippings from broiler pan into butter and simmer slowly 10 minutes. Skim out fruit and sprinkle over meat. Add two tablespoons browned flour to butter and stir till well blended.

Stir in two cups boiling water and let boil five minutes. Strain around meat on platter and serve at once.

To brown flour—Put flour in an iron frying pan. Stir over a hot fire till brown. Caramel can be used to make the sauce brown and adds to the flavor of the sauce. Browned flour and caramel mean much to the cook in the making of sauces.

CASSEROLE OF BEEF WITH RAISINS
Two pounds lean beef, 1/2 cup diced celery, 2 tablespoons minced onion, 1/4 cup diced carrots, 1/2 cup chopped ham, one cup seeded raisins, 4 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 tea spoon salt, paprika, few gratings nutmeg, 4 tablespoons butter.

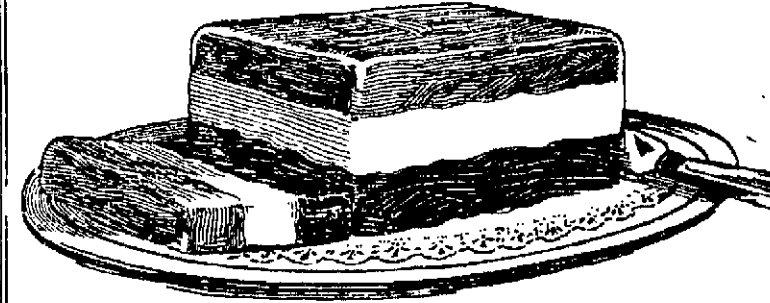

Melt butter in casserole. Add half the vegetables and ham and cook till browned. Add meat, cover with remaining vegetables and ham.

Add one-half cup boiling water, cover closely and cook in a hot oven half an hour. Remove meat from casserole and strain stock. Discard vegetables and return meat and stock to casserole. Add raisins, lemon juice, salt and paprika.

Cover and cook one hour in a moderate oven. Put on a hot platter and pour over sauce.

The sauce should not be thickened. This dish uses less expensive cut of meat than the first, but is delicious as to flavor.

HELPFUL HINTS FOR THE HOME BUILDER

Lasting Satisfaction in HOME BUILDING

The average man spends half his time and the average woman and child three-fourths of their time within the home.

If they hold title to it the pride of ownership forces a better standing of living. And whatever makes the hours spent there more inspiring, makes for better manhood and womanhood, particularly in the coming generations.

Greatest satisfaction comes when the design meets your particular needs, when the materials used and the way they're put together make the investment most economical in the long run, and when the financial arrangements are right.

In these and other particulars we can help you with suggestions based on years of experience.

WHEN YOU TRY TO SELL YOUR HOME

Then you will realize as never before the true dollar value of first-class plumbing and heating. A house may be well-planned, well-built, well-located, but unless it is well-plumbed and well-heated few people want it.

It takes the best of conveniences and comforts to make a house a home. And until a house is a home there is little joy in living.

Ever since the first Dutch colonists built homes after this style in Pennsylvania and New York state several centuries ago, the so-called Dutch Colonial type has been a favorite with American home builders. It is a type both comfortable and convenient in every way. The simple rectangular plan, elimination of waste space and building costs likewise make it a style of home reasonable to build.

The gambrel roof produces a snug appearance. The large dormer permits bedrooms practically full height. The wide, spacious porch is a very desirable feature. Round wood columns supporting the roof of the porch increase the impression of comfort. This home is a central hall type and is adaptable to nearly every section of the country.

This house provides six good rooms and bath. It is frame construction with brick base, brick chimney, shingle roof and exterior wall finished with wide bevel siding. The plan provides a full basement.

Study of room arrangement shows how carefully this home is planned to serve every comfort and convenience of a moderate sized family. All bedrooms have cross ventilation. An inclosed sleeping porch can be used 12 months of the year. It amounts to a fourth bedroom.

The housewife will appreciate the linen closet in the hall, clothes chute from second floor to laundry, medicine cabinet in the bath room. The kitchen has been designed scientifically and in accord with the modern principle of domestic economy, to lessen labor, speed up housework and save steps.
